

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0022] An authentic looking animal golf club head cover has an outer shell made of multiple pieces of plush material dyed to represent the fur of an animal and sewn in the contour shape of the animal head. A lightweight rigid foam insert has a cup formation with an exterior surface with facial details molded thereon and an inner surface forming a cavity for receiving the golf club head. The foam insert is positioned and attached to the outer shell so that the facial details of the outer shell and insert correspond. A ribbed sleeve is attached to a bottom portion of the outer shell and to a pocket which receives the golf club head. The pocket is maintained in place within the cavity by stitching one end of the pocket to the inner surface of the foam insert and by surrounding the pocket with fiber stuffings.